Cardiff and Vale Community Learning Partnership is a partnership of adult learning providers recognised by the Welsh government working together to ensure high standards of adult education are maintained.

Welcome to adult learning in Cardiff, where we provide the opportunity to try something new. Our day and evening classes invite you to explore a wide range of creative and educational experiences - from one-day workshops and summer school adventures to enriching term-time courses held weekly across three terms.

Whether you're 16 or 60, dipping your toes into a new hobby or diving deep into a passion project, there's a place for you. At Llanover Hall Arts Centre - the centre of hands on community arts and adult learning - you'll find classes in painting, crafts, drama, and more for both children and adults. It's also home to specialised sessions tailored for adults with disabilities, thoughtfully designed to build social skills, confidence, and wellbeing in an inclusive, welcoming environment.

Thanks to recent UK Government funding, Llanover Hall Art Centre has undergone exciting renovations, securing its role as a cultural cornerstone for the next generation of makers, movers, and creatives.

This 2025-26 prospectus gives you a glimpse into the courses available this academic year. Many classes begin in September, with rolling enrolment depending on availability - so it's never too late to jump in. Alongside term-time options, we offer one-off workshops, seasonal sessions for children, and weekend events that promise hands-on fun and creative fulfilment.

Ready to take part? Find out more and book your spot at: www.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

You are not entitled to attend a course unless you have paid in advance.

The Council reserves the right to cancel or limit the length of courses, or change the date, time or location of classes. In the event of a change you will be notified. Learners will be entitled to a full or partial refund in the event of course closure. Refunds are only given in exceptional circumstances and only within the first two weeks of the course starting. Refunds are subject to an admin fee.

If you are studying a language, your tutor will check you are in the most suitable class for your level – they will inform you if you need to move to another class (you can then decide to move, or to be refunded). The tutor's decision must be adhered to.

Whilst every effort is made to fire all pottery and fused glass work, we do not guarantee this will be completed straight away. We are not responsible for loss or damage to work due to the rigours of the firing process. We do not offer refunds for delays in firing. We ask learners only to put work to be fired if they plan to complete it and take it away once finished. Work left at the end of term will be disposed of – unless storage has been agreed in advance. We can take no responsibility for loss or damage to any work, tools or equipment stored in Llanover.

Some of our classes such as Stained Glass and Jewellery require the use of tools and equipment and working with materials that could cause injury if not used correctly – these classes may not be suitable for all learners and we will direct these learners to more suitable classes. If a class has to be cancelled at short notice, we will try to contact you – please make sure we have your correct contact details when you enrol.

Parking is limited at most venues – unfortunately we can't create more parking spaces. Where possible, please walk, cycle, use public transport, or car share. Vehicles are parked at owners' risk.

women's arts association wales

Women's Arts Association Wales is a voluntary organisation committed to promoting and celebrating the work of female artists. Women are encouraged to join us wherever their location.

WAAW is a registered charity, run by volunteers.

One of our objectives is to encourage women to exhibit their art, whatever art they make. We do not differentiate between professional and amateur work, all submissions for shows are placed by a curator.

Exhibiting art is complex and more is involved than hanging pictures on a wall, there is a long, and interesting process to organise a show. WAAW offers members who want to participate, a wide spectrum of learning opportunities in an informal environment. We would be delighted to welcome new members. Any specialist skills are also very useful to our organisation.

The Di Setch lecture is a public annual event where a guest speaker is invited to speak about her work. Guest speakers have been Professor Sue Williams, Sue Hiley Harris, and Adeola Dewis.

WAAW invites members and non- members to speak about their work, these informal talks are very interesting often resulting in conversation about process, development, ideas, research, goals and include a slide show.

WAAW is committed to equality with an emphasis on learning together, promoting art and artists, co-operation, development of skills, sharing expertise and these become - when acquired, part of a valuable skill set.

Offering over 95 weekly classes during term time, plus half-term workshops, holiday courses for children, and summer schools for all ages, the centre buzzes with energy all year round.

While staying true to the warm, welcoming spirit of Llanover Hall, the building has undergone a remarkable upgrade:

- The theatre now features a new seating system, modern LED stage lighting, and cinema facilities.
- Our pottery studio boasts new kilns and wheels, ready for hands-on inspiration.
- We've redesigned the café and gallery areas to elevate your experience.
- Additional improvements include a new roof, energy-efficient LED lighting throughout the building, and upgraded toilet facilities.

Thanks to generous support from UK Government funding, Llanover Hall Arts Centre is poised to inspire and engage our community for generations to come - delivering accessible arts, education, and performance for the next 50 years and beyond.
